bad mechanic reviews are about surprise bills, unapproved work or work nobody needed.

AI-coded sample of 1,079 bad Google reviews across 90 Sydney workshops, not checked by a person.
In our driver interviews, 5 of 10 bills rose by more than 10%.

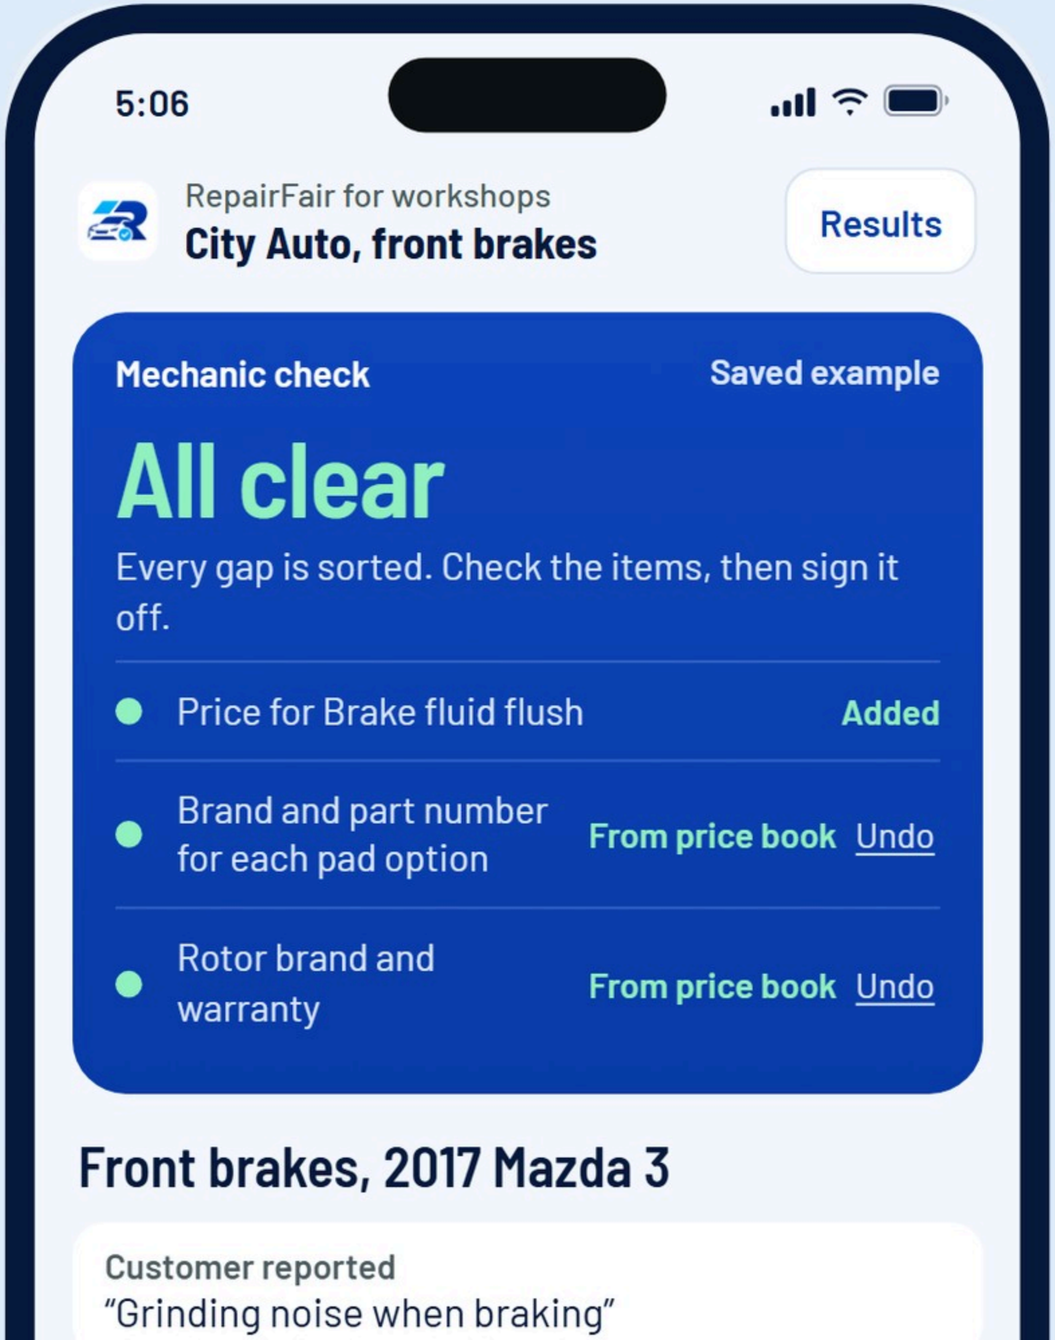

It's not trust. It's the missing record.

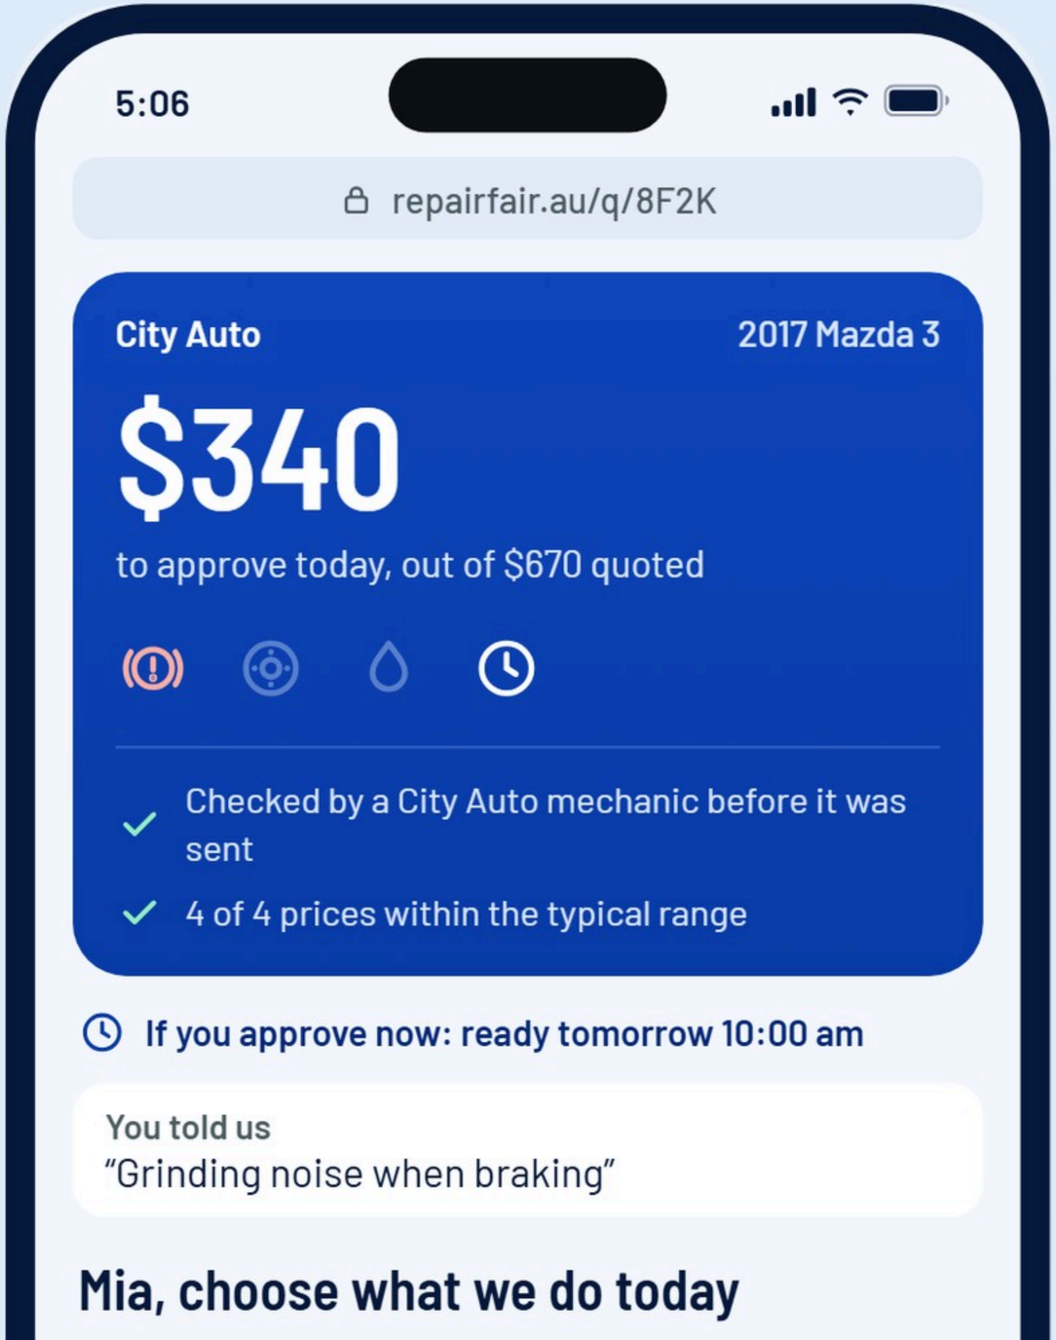

The driver can't check the yes.
The workshop can't prove it.

Every line.

Demo job. AI quotes are real. Texts and phones are simulated.

AI turns a mechanic's notes into a clear quote.

AI writes it up. The mechanic decides.

Front pads at 2mm, need doing now.
Rotors 22.4mm, can wait till next service.

WORKSHOPS

We took it to 10 workshops.

6 want to try it

4 said they'd pay

3 struggle to reach customers

Their feedback made written approval of extras our core.
Why: save time and paperwork, cut disputes, build trust with customers.
Two workshops have agreed to a free trial, and we're talking to more.

AI quotes are real. Texts and phones are simulated. Reasons come from interview notes and team conversations.

COMPETITION

THE WORKSHOP

✓ Extras get paid

✓ Up to 50 fewer calls a month

✓ "Not now" work comes back

Planned pricing, ex GST. Pro includes 300 texts a month. We estimate one hour of follow-up work covers $49.
Calls: estimate, not measured. Assumes 100 quotes a month, with about half needing a mid-job approval. Faster replies are a belief the pilot will test.

Start in the Inner West.

$10B

a year on service and repairs in Australia

6 pilot → 30 founding → 607+ Sydney → ~28,000 independents

$16.5M a year at $49, $26.5M at $79, if every independent paid.

Rest of Sydney only after the pilot hits its target.

Then: light system → garage network → parts tier → the big players

PILOT

One pilot.
6 garages. 3 months.

Help us make Mia's next bill no surprise.
Target: three of six put a card on file.
Two workshops have already agreed to trial it.

We'll measure time explaining quotes, bills matching approvals, and whether drivers understood.

Fair for the driver. Protected for the workshop.

How the review study worked

Sample	607 workshops found; 15 picked at random in each of 6 regions, from those with 5+ bad reviews
Reviews	60 lowest-rated reviews per workshop, names removed: 1,079 one- and two-star reviews with text
Result	20.5% (range 15–25%): 6% bills or approval, 16% unnecessary work, with some overlap
Coding	AI-coded. Two more AI coders agreed on 90–93% of a 60-review sample. Not checked by a person.
Checks	20.6% without flagged reviews; 16% without the biggest three workshops. Bad reviews are about 7% of all reviews.

What's real in the prototype

Working

- AI quote from a mechanic's notes
- Suggested checks for the mechanic, not a diagnosis
- Mechanic check and price book
- Timestamped approvals in the app
- Own-language view, voice notes, add-ons view
- Invoice built from the approved quote

Simulated or sample

- Both phones, texts and links
- Booking times and Send to Xero
- Parts price ranges and Results figures
- Mia and the $470 bill are a demo

Planned: a live Xero connection. The export file hasn't been tested in Xero.
Not yet tested: voice on a real microphone, or translations with a fluent speaker.
